(1 Timothy 3:14)

For the sake of the church, I exhort you to be diligent in these things, so that you may be able to teach them well to the flock of God, which I have entrusted to your care. Do not neglect the gift you have received, which is within you, and which has been entrusted to you through the laying on of hands. Do not be ashamed, therefore, to proclaim the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ and to teach those things which pertain to the doctrine of the Lord Jesus Christ, which are good for teaching and reproof, for correction and instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, equipped for every good work.

For the sake of the church, I exhort you to be diligent in these things, so that you may be able to teach them well to the flock of God, which I have entrusted to your care. Do not neglect the gift you have received, which is within you, and which has been entrusted to you through the laying on of hands. Do not be ashamed, therefore, to proclaim the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ and to teach those things which pertain to the doctrine of the Lord Jesus Christ, which are good for teaching and reproof, for correction and instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, equipped for every good work.

Forasmuch as many have wandered away, and have turned away from the sound doctrine, which was first preached to the holy apostles, and have followed the vain words of men, and have learned to deny the Lord Jesus Christ, who has redeemed us from all iniquity, and has purified to himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works. Therefore, I exhort you to flee from these things, and to follow the path of peace and gentleness, with those who call on the Lord Jesus Christ with a pure conscience, and who desire to live soberly, righteously, and godly in the present age. For the kingdom of God does not consist in eating and drinking, but in righteousness, peace, and joy with those who live in peace with one another. Forasmuch as we have loved one another, and have kept the commandments which we have heard from the Father, and have loved one another, that we may have peace and joy with one another, and that we may be true to the Father and to the Son, who have sent us into the world, and who have given us the Holy Spirit and the word of eternal life, let us love one another, that we may have peace and joy with one another, and that we may be true to the Father and to the Son, who have sent us into the world, and who have given us the Holy Spirit and the word of eternal life.
