

Matthew 24:23-26 and Mark 13:23-25 are often cited as warnings about false prophets. The text says, "For if a false prophet will say, 'Peace, peace,' and there will be war, or he will say, 'There will be no war, no peace,' and there will be peace, or he will say, 'The Messiah is here,' and he will not be, or he will say, 'The Messiah is there,' and he will not be, then will the false prophet be punished."

The text continues, "For if a false prophet will say, 'The Messiah is here,' and he will not be, or he will say, 'The Messiah is there,' and he will not be, then will the false prophet be punished." This is a warning to be vigilant and not to be deceived by false claims of the Messiah's return.

The text concludes with a warning to be vigilant and not to be deceived by false claims of the Messiah's return.

Introduction

It is often said that faith is a journey, not a destination. This book is a collection of stories and reflections that explore the meaning of faith in our lives.

Through the words of the prophets and the experiences of ordinary people, we discover the power of faith to transform our lives and the world around us. This is a journey of hope and discovery, one that we all can embark upon.

“Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.”

“Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen.”

“Faith is the anchor of the soul, the sure and steadfast anchor of the life.”

It is time to embark on this journey of faith and hope.

“Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen; without faith it is impossible to please God, for who can approach Him without faith?”

Hebrews 11:1

Let us begin our journey of faith and hope with the words of the apostle Paul:

“Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen. It is the anchor of the soul, the sure and steadfast anchor of the life.”

Hebrews 11:1
