There are three main areas of concern:

- The role of the church in society
- The role of the church in education
- The role of the church in social justice

The church has a unique role to play in society, and it is essential that we understand this role in the context of our current challenges. The church is called to be a voice for the marginalized and to stand for justice and peace. This is not only a moral imperative but also a practical one, as the church has the resources and influence to make a difference in the lives of many people.

The church must also be a place of hope and healing for its members and the wider community. This requires a commitment to pastoral care and social service, as well as a willingness to engage with the world around us.
