

(Apostle Paul 13:20)

“I am now in a state of blindness, and I am not sure of my future; I am in a state of blindness, and I am not sure of my future.”

Paul was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future; he was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future. Paul was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future; he was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future. Paul was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future; he was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future. Paul was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future; he was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future.

Paul was in a state of blindness, and he was not sure of his future:

“I am now in a state of blindness, and I am not sure of my future; I am in a state of blindness, and I am not sure of my future.”
