

Exegesis (Exegesis) vs Eisegesis (Eisegesis): What's the difference?
What's the difference between Exegesis and Eisegesis?

Exegesis vs Eisegesis: Exegesis is the process of interpreting the text of the Bible, while Eisegesis is the process of interpreting the text of the Bible in a way that supports a pre-determined conclusion.

1) Exegesis (Exegesis)

Exegesis is the process of interpreting the text of the Bible, while Eisegesis is the process of interpreting the text of the Bible in a way that supports a pre-determined conclusion. Exegesis is a method of interpretation that seeks to understand the text of the Bible on its own terms, while Eisegesis is a method of interpretation that seeks to understand the text of the Bible in a way that supports a pre-determined conclusion.

Sola Scriptura (Sola Scriptura) is the principle that the Bible is the only source of authority for the Christian faith.

“The Bible is the only source of authority for the Christian faith, and it is the only source of authority for the Christian faith. The Bible is the only source of authority for the Christian faith, and it is the only source of authority for the Christian faith. The Bible is the only source of authority for the Christian faith, and it is the only source of authority for the Christian faith.”

Exegesis (Exegesis) vs. Eisegesis (Eisegesis): What's the difference?
How do we interpret the Bible?

(2 Corinthians 3:16-17)

Exegesis is the process of interpreting the Bible, while Eisegesis is the process of interpreting the Bible based on your own preconceptions. What are the differences between the two?

- Exegesis (Exegesis): What does the text mean? How do we interpret the text? What are the author's intentions? What is the context of the text?
- Eisegesis (Eisegesis): How do we interpret the text based on our own preconceptions? How do we interpret the text based on our own beliefs? How do we interpret the text based on our own experiences?
- Exegesis (Exegesis): What does the text mean? How do we interpret the text? What are the author's intentions? What is the context of the text?
- Eisegesis (Eisegesis): How do we interpret the text based on our own preconceptions? How do we interpret the text based on our own beliefs? How do we interpret the text based on our own experiences?

2) Eisegesis (Eisegesis)

Exegesis (Exegesis) vs. Eisegesis (Eisegesis): Which is better?
Which is more accurate?

(1 John 5:7)

John 5:7

John 5:7 is a well-known verse in the Bible, often cited in discussions about the Trinity. The verse reads: "For three are who testify in heaven: the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit, and these three are one." (KJV)

"For three are who testify in heaven: the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit, and these three are one."

(2 John 1:20)

Eisegesis vs. Exegesis

- Exegesis is the process of drawing out the meaning of a text, while Eisegesis is the process of imposing one's own meaning on a text. Exegesis is the preferred method of biblical interpretation, as it seeks to understand the text on its own terms, rather than imposing a preconceived notion of what the text means. Exegesis is the process of drawing out the meaning of a text, while Eisegesis is the process of imposing one's own meaning on a text. Exegesis is the preferred method of biblical interpretation, as it seeks to understand the text on its own terms, rather than imposing a preconceived notion of what the text means.

