

Blessed be the name of our Lord Jesus Christ! The Bible makes it clear that Satan is our adversary. He prowls around like a roaring lion, always looking for ways to devour us (1 Peter 5:8). His attacks don't come only when we fall into sin; they can strike even when we're striving to live righteously. That's why understanding the doors we may leave open to him is crucial for every believer.

Doors the Enemy Uses

The enemy often gains access to our lives through sin and spiritual neglect. Some of the most destructive gateways include adultery, fornication, witchcraft, idol worship, unforgiveness, hatred, and even murder. Scripture warns us in 1 Corinthians 6:18 to “flee from sexual immorality” because it is a unique sin against our own body—the very temple of the Holy Spirit. These sins open doors for spiritual oppression and physical consequences.

But even if we avoid these obvious sins, many Christians still find themselves battling spiritual attacks. Why? Because there is another, less obvious door we often ignore: the lack of prayer.

The Overlooked Door: Prayerlessness

Prayer is not simply a ritual or a once-a-week duty. It is our lifeline to God and our greatest defense against temptation. Philippians 4:6 encourages us to bring everything before God with prayer, petition, and thanksgiving. Yet many believers have fallen for the lie that because they are saved, they don't need to pray consistently.

Jesus Himself, though sinless, prayed fervently and often. Hebrews 5:7 describes Him offering up prayers with tears and cries. And in Luke 22:46, He warned His disciples: “Get up and pray so that you will not fall into temptation.” If Jesus needed a strong prayer life, how much more do we?

Think of prayer like daily hygiene. Someone who eats well but never bathes may look fine for a while, but eventually, sickness will set in. Similarly, a Christian who reads Scripture or avoids certain sins but neglects prayer will eventually become vulnerable to the enemy.

Self-Reflection and Action

Jesus urged His disciples to pray at least an hour, not occasionally but daily (Matthew 26:40-41). So ask yourself honestly: When was the last time I prayed for at least an hour? If spiritual struggles persist despite your best efforts, this may be the open door.

James 4:2 reminds us, “You do not have because you do not ask.” Many believers are destroyed, not because they engage in blatant sins, but because they neglect the discipline of prayer. Hosea 4:6 says, “My people are destroyed from lack of knowledge.”

The good news is this door can be shut today. Start strengthening your prayer life—combine it with reading the Word and walking in holiness. When these elements come together, the enemy finds no foothold.

May God empower us to stay watchful, prayerful, and strong in faith. Maranatha!
